Dr. Tim Mahoney was elected Mayor of Fargo in early 2015. Immediately prior to that election, he served as a Fargo City Commissioner for ten years.

The Mayor feels the most challenging part of his job is making sure voters' voices are heard and planning for their long-term needs and dreams.

Mahoney enjoys meeting residents and learning more about the issues that will affect the City's future.

"The citizens of Fargo are wonderful and want to make it a better place to live," Mahoney said.

Kathryn Burgum became First Lady on December 15, 2016, when her husband Governor Doug Burgum was sworn in as the 33rd Governor of North Dakota.

As First Lady, Kathryn's priority is supporting and developing initiatives to eliminate the shame and stigma of the chronic disease of addiction in North Dakota's communities.

In long-term recovery for 18 years, she shares her personal experience and encourages others to do the same to normalize the conversation around the disease of addiction. She is spreading the word that addiction is a chronic disease and not a character flaw. Kathryn plays an active role in supporting the Office of Recovery Reinvented as the chair of the Advisory Council.

MAYOR TIM MAHONEY

PROFESSIONAL AND EDUCATIONAL BACKGROUND

In addition to his job as a Mayor, Dr. Mahoney also works as a general and vascular surgeon at Lake Region Healthcare in Fergus Falls, Minnesota.

He holds degrees from the University of Notre Dame, Tufts University, the University of North Dakota and Harvard University.

PERSONAL BACKGROUND

The Mayor was born in Devils Lake, North Dakota and has lived in Fargo since 1980.

He is married to Kathy Mahoney, registered nurse. The couple has four children (Ryan, Kaileen, Colin and Dylan) and four grandchildren.

"We are a very active family and enjoy all that Fargo offers," Mahoney said.
